HANDBOOK INTRODUCTION

Welcome to [NAME OF CHILDCARE]! [NAME OF CHILDCARE] strives to promote a team approach that involves staff, parents, and board members working together to create the best possible program for children. The pride and comradery in achieving this goal should foster a positive environment for all.

This Handbook, and its companion employee handbook, Employment Policies will familiarize you with the privileges, benefits, and responsibilities of being an employee at [NAME OF CHILDCARE].

This handbook focuses on staff policies to keep [NAME OF CHILDCARE] in regulatory compliance and to explicitly explain some of the policies and procedures that help to ensure a safe, nurturing, and enriching environment for children.

At [NAME OF CHILDCARE], as in the rest of the world, circumstances can change. As a result, we may have to revise, rescind, or supplement these policies from time to time. The policies described in this Handbook do not constitute a contract or a promise. The policies can change at any time, for any reason, without warning.

We are always looking for ways to improve communications with our employees. If you have suggestions for ways to improve this Handbook in particular or employee relations in general, please feel free to bring them to your supervisor.

Program Mission & Approach

[NAME OF CHILDCARE] is non-profit, employer-assisted parent cooperative. The program was formed by a coalition of the following community businesses and institutions committed to providing their employees and community members with high quality child care that supports families.

The mission of [NAME OF CHILDCARE] is to provide high quality, developmentally appropriate child care in a nurturing, safe, and supportive environment. This is based on the recognition that Social Competence is the key to all learning. Children's early interpersonal relationships determine their understanding of the world. The development of positive relationships based on respect for the individual is the foundation of the program. All children should have the opportunity to learn the skills necessary to participate in satisfying relationships and activities with their peers, teachers, parents and other significant adults.

Specific components of the program include:

1. Weaving parent involvement into the program in a way that offers parenting education, respects parents, and ultimately provides added benefits for children.
2. Integrating a preschool curriculum that is designed to meet the cognitive, social, emotional, physical, and creative needs of the children at their various developmental levels.
3. Offering play-based high-scope curriculum that provides choices for children and meets them at their interest level.

Parenting education is most effective when it involves hands on application of knowledge. This includes implementing curriculum, interacting with children, learning appropriate teaching and caregiving practices learned in part by observing children and teachers.

Roles and Responsibilities: Board of Directors, Parents, and Staff

[NAME OF CHILDCARE] is a non-profit child care center that operates as a cooperative. Parents and Employer representatives comprise the Board of Directors, who are ultimately responsible for establishing policies and for hiring and evaluating the Program Director.

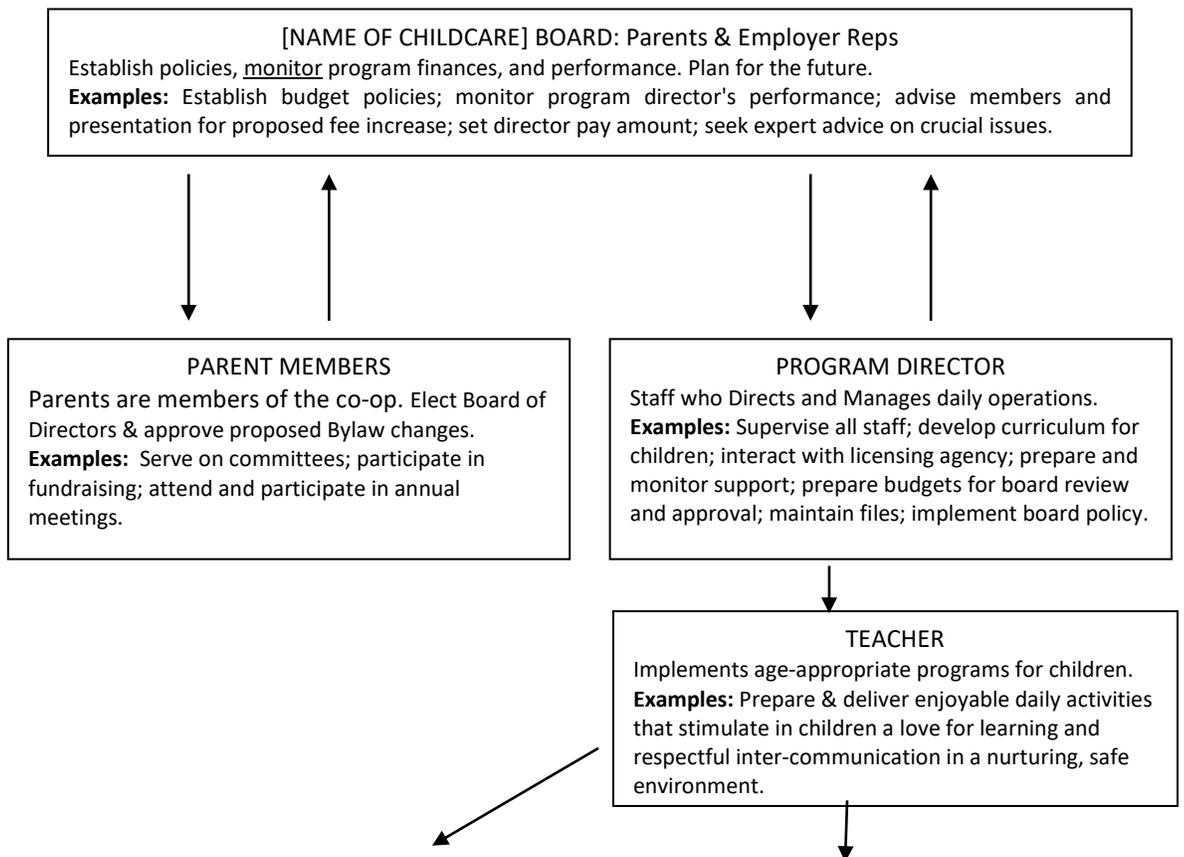

Because [NAME OF CHILDCARE] operates as a cooperative, parents are the members of the cooperative. They participate in the co-op in several ways. They elect or approve the board of directors, they serve on committees that support the co-op, and some may volunteer their time in the classroom and provide curriculum support. Studies show that parent involvement helps to extend all the learning and positive experiences of the child care center to home and helps children by making for a more seamless line between their home and out of home care.

Parent involvement should be embraced and nurtured by staff because of its positive benefits for children. Understandably, sometimes it might seem frustrating to have parents who expect staff to share information and answer questions. When occasional frustrations occur, remember the benefits that this involvement ultimately makes for children and for the ways that parent support enriches the center.

General Staff Descriptions

Each position has a detailed description and list of responsibilities, tasks, and regulatory requirements. Below are general job descriptions to help all staff understand mutual responsibilities.

SECTION 4-CCPP

PRIMARY CARE

A crucial component of supporting the emotional needs of children is recognizing the importance of primary caregiving--importance of close and trusting relationships between the child and his/her primary caregivers. This includes supporting parent-child relationships, but also recognizing that the primary child care provider should be consistent, and staffing and grouping of children is done in a way that encourages the formation of close and trusting relationships between caregivers, infants and their families

SECTION 5-CCPP

EMPLOYEE TRAINING EXPECTATIONS

5.1-CCPP: ENCOURAGING CONTINUING STAFF TRAINING AND EDUCATION

[NAME OF CHILDCARE] encourages all staff to participate in ongoing training and education on topics that enhance and improve their caregiving skills. With pre-approval of such classes, [NAME OF CHILDCARE] may pay for at least a portion of the costs for such classes. Considerations involved in helping to pay for training include the Center’s budget and economic condition, class content and other methods of evaluating its relatedness and value to [NAME OF CHILDCARE], and job performance of the employee. While some employees may have been requested to gain further education in a particular area, in general, [NAME OF CHILDCARE] considers training to be an investment in employees who perform well.

All employees are required to certify attendance and completion of any approved training.

5.2-CCPP: CPR and First Aide Training

SECTION 6-CCPP

6:1-EXPECTATIONS IN THE TREATMENT OF CHILDREN

Under all circumstances staff members will act consistent with ensuring the safe care for children who are in the care of [NAME OF CHILDCARE].

6:2-Guidance and Socialization (Discipline)

Under no circumstances will corporal punishment of any kind be used in at [NAME OF CHILDCARE]. Nor will an adult voice ever be raised in anger at a child.

It is the policy of [NAME OF CHILDCARE] to focus on positive guidance. Positive guidance is the practice of looking at each situation through the lens of child development and guiding children's behavior. This practice reframes the situation, so we move beyond a reaction and towards a more effective response.

Rather than using punishment that is punitive and harsh, positive guidance considers children's developmental needs, these are associated with, but not identical to age because each child develops differently. This approach includes considering developmental needs and:

- Offering opportunities to explore and learn
- Establishing routines and roles that help children know what to expect
- Setting clear boundaries and limits
- Offering choices
- Be proactive in knowing how to prevent stress or anxiety—such as transitions, from the daily drop-off and pick-up, to changing teachers or classes

SECTION 7-CCPP

CURRICULUM, ACTIVITIES & INTEREST AREAS

7.1 Activities & Interest Areas

Young children learn by doing. They need to touch, move, push, pull, taste, smell and listen to develop understanding. Interest areas and activities should integrate this knowledge to fully capture children's interest and foster learning. The center should be set up and organized to assure child safety and to help children feel safe.

Staff should watch children for teachable moments.

FOR EXAMPLE USE ONLY – PLEASE CONSULT AN ATTORNEY ON THIS WORK

Dramatic play is encouraged through props and themes such as housekeeping, different types of work, fantasy and leisure activities. It is important that props represent diversity, such as dolls representing difference races, cultures, abilities, and clothing, cooking utensils and pretend foods represent diversity as well.
- Music & Movement: Musical toys and instruments should be accessible, recorded music played (not too loud) for musical purposes such as singing, dancing and movement (not just as background). Integrate diversity in types of music.
